

Microgreens grown in the borough, delivered in days.

THE BUSINESS

Brooklyn Tiny Farm grows microgreens — sunflower, pea shoots, radish, broccoli, and specialty mixes — inside the borough and delivers them direct to consumers and restaurant kitchens within days of harvest. Trays are seeded weekly on a rolling schedule, so every delivery is cut fresh, never warehoused.

WHY IT WINS

Hyper-local & hyper-fresh

Grown in Brooklyn and delivered across the borough within days of cutting — flavor supermarket greens can't match.

Restaurant-grade quality

Standing weekly accounts with local kitchens, with a published price sheet and consistent supply.

Rolling weekly harvest

New trays seeded every week means year-round availability, independent of season or weather.
